

【例文】

1. I did not go because I was ill.
 2. I did not go because I liked to.
 3. I have no other friend than you.
 4. There is no evidence in his favour.
 5. I remember seeing her somewhere.
- since・・・ (--because...)

【語彙】

mean (動) を意味する、(形) 卑怯な、(名) 中間/ (形) 中間の

golden mean 中庸

reject = re(again) + ject (throw) …を拒否する

scorn 軽蔑

indignation 憤り

since …以来、 …だから (理由)

extreme 極端な

favour 好意、支持

in point 適切な a case in point 好例、適例

【例題】

The golden mean is an uninteresting doctrine, and I can remember when I was young rejecting it with scorn and indignation, since in those days it was heroic extremes that I admired. Truth, however, is not always interesting and many things are believed because they are interesting although, in fact, there is little other evidence in their favour. The golden mean is a case in point : it may be an uninteresting doctrine, but in a very great many matters it is a true one.